Great Progress OF THE Fisher's Pianos

From a small beginning the Fisher Piano has grown to be not only one of the best known pianos made,
but its sale has reached a point where it is nearly double that of any piano manufactured in this or any other country. All this has been accomplished, practically speaking, within the past ten years. Not only this, but it has received the highest testimonials from many of the greatest vocalists and pianists that the world has ever produced. It is in daily use in leading schools and colleges everywhere, and has received highest rewards wherever publicly exhibited.—Chicago Indicator.

We sell the Fisher Piano,
also Decker Bros. and Webber Pianos, Story & Clark and Chicago Cottage Organs, and several other fine makes.

USURPED DIGNITY OF "COP" AND SUFFERED

SHIMODA, a bull-built Japanese, who out-pompadoored Jim Corbett, was the stellar constellation in the galaxy of evil-doers who gave their usual Monday morning rehearsal in Judge Wilcox's court yesterday forenoon.

The charge read that Shimoda did on Sunday night unlawfully assault Officer Spencer by striking and beating him, said officer being at the time in the discharge of his duty.

The story was a strange one. Shimoda, who lives at Iwilei, aspired to be a policeman and wear a big and brassy star, evidently being keenly alive to the needs of his chosen locality. On Thursday night, his wish probably being father to his vision, he dreamed a dream. In his dream High Sheriff Brown appeared to him and presented him with a police commission, pinning on his breast at the same time a large and shining metal disc.

When Shimoda awoke in the morning he discovered that his commission had fled with his sleep and that there remained to him not even the gun metal insignia of office. He was distraught; he wept.

By this time his desire for authority amounted almost to a mania, and he set out to gratify his wish to the best of his ability. First of all he manufactured a luxuriant mustache with the aid of a little paint, not neglecting to add a Parkerian goatee. Then he procured an old soldier blouse and tied it at the waist with a yard of clothesline, pinning to his breast the bottom of a tomato can, to act as a warning and a terror to any breakers of the law he might chance to run across. His husband he decorated with the tinsel obtained from a neighboring cigar store. For a club he swore in a bottle of root beer, which dangled ostentatiously by his side.

Thus equipped he sallied forth to investigate the alleged scandals of the Tenderloin. All that night he ruled supreme neither on the following evening did any one arise to as much as dispute his credentials. On Sunday night, however, an untoward thing happened and Shimoda's brief reign came to an untimely conclusion.

It fell about thusly: Shimoda was patrolling his beat with the grace and modest dignity of a Hamrahah when Officer Spencer hove in sight. The sight was as a red rag to a male bovine, and Shimoda bore down on the intruder, flourishing his root-beer bottle wickedly. He told the officer, through an interpreter, that the Sheriff had told him to take charge of the place, and requested him to move on. Spencer demanded to see his badge, but Shimoda replied that his authority was the main thing, and greater than many badges. As Spencer remained obdurate in the matter of moving on, Shimoda elected to put him out of the corral, and a rough and tumble ensued, in which, after a hard tussle, the victory rested with the bona fide "cop," who downed Shimoda and sat on his head until help arrived.

At the police station Shimoda said that it was solely the virtue of the officer's star which enabled him to get the mastery, and to prove it, challenged Spencer to a wrestling match in the court-yard of the prison, the officer to take the mat minus the emblem which distinguishes "the finest" from common clay. Needless to say, the trial of strength did not come off, the victory rested with the bona fide "cop," who downed Shimoda and sat on his head until help arrived.

MUCH MERCY METED TO MISERABLE MEN BURNED DISTRICT IS NOT BEING BUILT UP

The usual Saturday to Monday haul of swine-drinkers and disturbers of the quiet of the night filled the dress circle and parquet of Judge Wilcox's auditorium yesterday.

"Ordinary case," reflected Chillingworth.

"Two dollars and costs," philosophized His Honor.

The list was gone through like a farmer at a State fair, there being only three dissentients, whose cases were held over till the afternoon.

Punctually at 1:30 p. m. the Judge ascended his pedestal to put the finishing touches to the day's justice.

"What's left over?" quoth he.

"Only three drunks," replied the Sheriff. "Are you ready for them?"

"Bring on your drunks," instructed His Honor.

A Johnson made his bow.

Said he: "O! b'long to the Doonragan, yer Honor. O! got ashore and couldn't find my way back. O! only 'ad two glasses of beer, y' Honor, an' if you'll please to let me go, O! I promise never to go ashore again."

The Judge let him go, and C. Green, the next on the list, smiled copiously at his prospects.

He said, in part: "I was never inside a court before in my life, Your Honor; I wasn't, upon my word. I've been and gone and lost a day's work all on account of three beers—I have, so help me."

The Judge remarked that every one is constantly enjoying new experiences and that if there were no changes, life would get monotonous. He then told Mr. Johnson to get his hat and go, whereupon T. Johnson, the remaining offender, rubbed his hands and chuckled with anticipatory glee.

He pleaded that he was a stranger here and had lost his way. He admitted that he was not what might be called a staunch teetotaler, and that, while not exactly rolling drunk, he did have "a bit of a skate on." He also was allowed to depart in peace, and the noble army of tipplers are ready to swear by trial after lunch in consequence.

Diamond Head to Waialae.

The Department of Public Works is awaiting the arrival of Mr. Bruner from Hawaii to make surveys on the proposed new road around Diamond Head to Waialae. Mr. Bruner will survey the upper and lower routes as proposed and the Department will later make its choice of the two locations. Mr. Bruner has been over the route once before.

The Orpheum.

"Uncle Rufus' Christmas" the curtain raiser at the Orpheum last night proved quite a strong piece. Hen Wise as Uncle Rufus did the honors in good shape, Katie Milton making a hit as a "tough girl," with song and dance.

A very good sized crowd was in attendance.

Chinatown property owners are now free to construct buildings in the burned district for which they first obtain permits from the Department of Public Works and the Board of Health. Despite the first attempts of the Board of Health to prevent buildings being erected on the flame-swept district, there is nothing to hinder owners from putting up whatever buildings they desire if they do not violate any of the building and sanitary rules and regulations.

The decision by which the owners of the property at the corner of Fort and Hotel streets were permitted to erect and occupy a building there before the sewerage system was ready for operation had a sweeping effect as far as the other former plague-ridden sections were concerned. At that time an agreement was entered into by every person obtaining a permit to build that no one would be allowed to make use of any such building until the sewerage connections could be made. This agreement has now no effect and the owners of old Chinatown property are free to make use of their property as they see fit. Whatever buildings are erected, however, must under all circumstances conform entirely with the sanitary regulations concerning the disposition of sewage.

Fifteen permits have been issued for Chinatown structures, but few owners are making use of the permission. Four are already put up and all have agreed to make the necessary cesspools. These will be of cement lining and constructed so they can easily be connected with the sewerage system when it is extended to the district.

Sanitary Inspector Pratt says few owners care to take out permits now that the bers are down. His theory for this is that money is tight and that to borrow money they must put up a building that will be worth the risk of money lenders to put out their capital. With money loaned at 7 or 8 per cent and insurance at 6 per cent, making a total of 13 to 14 per cent per annum, the borrower is put to a big expense to improve his property. The sanitary regulations does not anticipate a great rush for permits for this district and says the delay thus occasioned will work for the best permanent interests of that section.

MANSON IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Absent Honolulu Evidently Arranged for a Stay.

George Manson is in San Francisco. It is now almost certain that Manson left this city with the intention of going to the Coast. A business man who was intimately acquainted with Manson states that the latter procured a draft from a bank on San Francisco shortly before his departure. The bank clerk who issued the draft went down to the steamer Alameda to see about a note that had not been fixed up and he found Manson between decks and dressed for traveling. Manson said, "You don't need to be afraid; I am just going on a trip to the other islands."

Dr. Garvin held a post-mortem on the body of Kalua Walehika, a two-year-old girl who died at Kalihi, and peritonitis was learned to have been the cause of death. Dr. Noblitt attended the case of Pepehi, a native woman who died of old age. Dr. Garvin certified to the death.
